

Recommendation for Ananda Moreira

LCPT Sistemas Mentorship and production collaboration

I am Luis Cesar Pinheiro, owner of LCPT Sistemas, and I mentor Ananda Moreira directly in day-to-day delivery.

In production, Ananda builds backend services and document-heavy workflows that combine APIs, OCR, PDF processing, and Excel outputs. She has handled Flask and Python systems where the challenge is converting inconsistent input data into reliable operational results.

She works well with messy files, changing business rules, and external integrations that do not stay stable. She also stays with systems after deployment, including production debugging and maintenance when issues appear.

Her RAG work has been focused on system design, not chatbot packaging. She has been building retrieval scope, ingestion flow, citation handling, and backend ownership of prompts and model calls so behavior stays traceable and controlled.

I have seen her technical growth in real client environments, and our mentorship is practical: review, iteration, and direct responsibility for outcomes.
